Effect of name order in senate roll call voting pattern.

- Using combined fixed effects at the senator level and at the congress level, evaluated the impact of alphabetical order of the senators' last names on Senate roll call.
- Wrote Perl scripts to extract senate and house roll-call data starting from 1940 into a analysable data set.

Graduate Research Assistant to Professor Pablo Montagnes

JANUARY 2012 – MARCH 2012

Harris School of Public Policy, University of Chicago

Understanding voting patterns for simultaneous elections in a given year at the precinct level

- Designed a Stata program that extracts information from the Cook County precinct level election results into a user-friendly data set.
- Wrote Stata programs to clean and analyze data.

Graduate Research Assistant to A. Rupa Datta, Vice President and Senior Fellow OCTOBER 2011 – MARCH 2012

National Opinion Research Centre at the University of Chicago

National Survey of Early Care and Education

- Managed the IRB approval process for all the school districts from which the survey intended to interview early care providers.
- Did quality control of the survey responses received from the field.

WRITING

- Short Paper: “Distance as an instrument for measuring centralized control in government schools”, December 2012.

Summary: The paper shows that the quality and outcomes of a government school deteriorate as the distance of a government school from district headquarters increases. This effect is absent in private schools which tend to be decentralized.

- Research Design as part of course-work: “Indian Politics: The Criminals beget Criminals Effect”, May 2012.

Summary: I create a research design that uses regression discontinuity design to prove that when the incumbent in Indian elections is a criminal, and the opposition party thinks that there is a high probability of the election being close, the opposition party also tends to nominate a criminal.
